Albany, MO – December 10, 2013 – Northwest Medical Center (NMC) caregivers recently collected 2,860 pounds of non-perishable food items to donate to area food banks. This amount exceeded the hospital's goal to raise one ton of non-perishable food items during their annual Holiday Week.

NMC Caregivers collect non-perishable food items during their annual Holiday Week Food Drive.

The drive also built a healthy sense of competition between Northwest Medical Center departments. Radiology led the way, donating 642 pounds of food. Jon Doolittle, Northwest Medical Center President and CEO, is proud of all the caregivers who took part in the food drive.

"Northwest Medical Center takes great pride in serving our communities. This year's canned food drive was an enormous success and will help our area food pantries provide nourishment to families and individuals this holiday season." Doolittle said. "I congratulate all of our caregivers on a job well done."

All food items collected will be sorted and donated to food banks located in King City, Stanberry, Grant City and Albany.
